Ex 3 p 60:

Over two-thirds of the peoples say that Chinese stir fry wok is easy to prepare

Britons eat international food three out of seven nights of the week

Half of the people say that traditional dishes are boring

The top ten international dishes are sweet and sour chicken, Thai green and red curry, king prawn, Szechuan noodles.

In the past Britons used to eat cottage pie, sausages and mash or fish and chips but nowadays they prefer international food and especially international food.

Chinese stir fry wok is easier to prepare than traditional British cuisine.

Traditional food was boring

British have a penchant for exotic tastes across the globe

Ex 5 p 60:

I'm used to eat French, Austrian and English food because my parents come from France, Austria and England. So I often eat bœuf bourguignon, knödel or fish and chips. But I also eat pizza from Italy or hamburgers from America I sometimes eat Indian food like chicken Masala, Lebanese taboulé or Moroccan couscous. So I can say I have multicultural eating habits.
